

STRIKE ON THIRD AVENUE CAR LINES REPORTED SETTLED

Whitridge and Union Organizer Said to Have Come to Agreement.

"MOTHER" JONES TALKS.

Her Automobile Narrowly Escapes Being Run Down by Bronx Trolley.

Reports that President Whitridge of the Third Avenue Railroad and Organizer William B. Fitzgerald of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railroad Employees had reached an agreement over the telephone as to the settlement of the strike were circulated in labor circles to-day.

Mr. Fitzgerald refused to discuss the rumor. He said he would have something to say about the strike situation late this afternoon in an address to the students of the Columbia University School of Journalism.

"Mother" Jones made speeches to the street railway strikers in the Bronx this afternoon. The automobile in which she was riding narrowly escaped being run down by a trolley car at One Hundred and Forty-ninth Street and Third Avenue.

Owing to an error in printing the notice of the amendment of the ordinance requiring fifteen days' experience for street car motormen in Mount Vernon, it cannot be promulgated until to-morrow.

The company sent out six cars to-day in charge of former employees and inspectors and starters. Mayor Fiske supervised the police arrangements. Four policemen rode on each car and two followed in an automobile.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot-water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which, if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. The quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, cold, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply cannot get feeling right, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make any one a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.—Advt.

TYSON CLOSES HOME AND GOES TO TEXAS; MRS. BASS IN SOUTH.

OLIVE HAWLEY BASS

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 5.—John H. Tyson, who recently left his third wife, Mrs. Rose Budd Exner Tyson, after a honeymoon of six days, has closed his home here and is said to be on his way to Texas. He has installed his children, servants and the grandmother of his second wife in a bungalow at Riverside.

On Monday, the same day that Tyson left, Mrs. Olive Hawley Bass, of Stamford, left her home. She and Tyson have professed their affection and Tyson said he married his third wife only to spite Mrs. Bass because of a temporary spat. Mrs. Bass, accompanied by her mother, is also said to have gone South. She is suing her husband for an annulment of their marriage.

Shiners made a rush at the first car, but were scattered without arrests. Following the repeal of the fifteen-day ordinance, effective Saturday, in New Rochelle by an all night meeting of the Common Council, similar action is to be urged at the meeting of the Yonkers Aldermen to-night. To discourage the Council from repealing the act a parade of Westchester car strikers, escorted by the members of other labor unions, is to be held to-night.

STRICKEN ON STREET, FATHER CARROLL DIES

Rector of St. Michael's Church in Brooklyn Expires of Heart Failure.

Stricken with heart disease while walking last night on Nostrand Avenue, the Rev. Thomas E. Carroll, rector of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Fourth Avenue and Forty-second Street, Brooklyn, died before a physician could reach him.

Father Carroll was fifty-four years old and was ordained in 1886. Besides doing work at Rockville Centre, L. I., he had been in charge at St. Mary Star of the Sea, Brooklyn; St. Bridget's, Ridgewood, Queens, and St. Vincent de Paul, Brooklyn. The greater part of his life was spent in Brooklyn, where he was born and educated. He celebrated his silver jubilee in 1911.

PLATTSBURG CAMPS END; 12,000 TRAINED THERE

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The Plattsburgh military training camps for 1916 were brought to an end here to-day with the return from the eleven-day hike and field maneuvers of the tenth training regiment.

During the summer more than 12,000 men, the camp authorities say, have received instructions in five successive camps.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood, commander of the Department of the East, and called the "father of the training camp idea," was with the student soldiers in the field to-day and watched them fight a spirited mimic battle as the wind-up of their campaign.

SON LED TO SUICIDE BY "SPIRIT VOICE," DECLARES MOTHER

Blackhall, Cornell Student, Often Told of Desire to Take Up Death Adventure.

HAD NO FEAR OF IT.

"More to Be Courted Than Shunned," Youth Drowned Off Ferry Is Quoted.

That Robert Blackhall, twenty years old, was led to jump into the Hudson River from a Fort Lee ferry-boat Sunday night by prompting from "the spirit world," is the belief of the boy's mother. He was a Cornell student and a spiritualist.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harold W. Stimpson, No. 601 Cathedral Parkway, Mrs. Blackhall told an Evening World reporter to-day she believes her son could not have committed self destruction voluntarily. "I can't believe Robert would do such a thing," she said in answer to the police report that the boy had been positively identified as her son. He was to have returned to his architectural studies next week in his sophomore year. The police to-day are scanning the river for the body.

"Robert was so strangely given to the studying of books on Spiritualism that I am sure he was in a reverie when he fell or jumped from the boat," said Mrs. Blackhall. "He often spoke to me of his desire to take up the adventure after death and said he held no fear of such adventure, as it must be without the misery of humanity, and more to be courted than shunned."

According to the young man's mother, with whom he lived at No. 257 Lenox Avenue, young Mr. Blackhall was of a marked nervous temperament and of a nature so sensitive that his casual observation of suffering on the part of others disturbed him.

The police identification was made from a photograph of the student submitted at Edgewater last night by Harold W. Stimpson, husband of his half-sister and treasurer of the Ajax Rubber Company, of No. 379 Broadway, who since Blackhall's failure to return from a visit to his sister, Mrs. Harold Houghtaling, at Englewood, N. Y., last Sunday evening, had given his entire time to the case. A porter who saw the young man go overboard was positive in the identification.

Mrs. Blackhall, ill from the shock of her son's disappearance, has been at the home of her daughter in Cathedral Parkway since Sunday. She said Robert had never given an intimation that he would end his life, although she said she had been worried over his condition since last Christmas, when the strain of over-study forced him to give up his school work for a time. Sunday, she said, he went to Englewood to visit his sister and left there at 7 o'clock to return home.

According to his mother, "Life and Health" and "Life Understood" were two of the books young Blackhall read incessantly.

KISSES AND LOVE TALKS BY PHONE, TOLD BY HUNTER

Lawyer Defeated in Divorce Action Presses Alienation Suit Against Kerfoot

In spite of a divorce suit decided against him early this year, Frederick William Hunter, wealthy lawyer and antique collector of this city and Freehold, N. J., to-day went ahead with his $50,000 alienation suit against his brother-in-law, John Barrett Kerfoot, noted literary critic and novelist.

Before a jury in Justice Cohan's part of the Supreme Court, Attorney Carlisle Norwood, for Hunter, promised to show how Kerfoot secretly wooed Mrs. Anna Belleville Hunter over a private telephone, visited her in her room in his pajamas, sprayed her throat and kissed her in the living room of the Hunter summer home at Freehold.

The court room was crowded with well dressed women who surrounded Mrs. Hunter and comforted her when Mr. Norwood told the jury how he would show that Mrs. Hunter had received the critic in her dressing room while she was attired in black silk tights. All the principals in the case are either fifty or over and gray haired; but age, Mr. Norwood told the jury, had not cooled Kerfoot's ardor. He referred to the situation of the Hunters and Kerfoot as an "extraordinary golden triangle" in which Hunter was the only unwilling angle.

"In order to intelligently understand this case," Mr. Norwood said, "it is necessary for you to understand Mr. Kerfoot's position in the Hunter household. The Hunters, who were married in 1882, were living with Mrs. Hunter's mother when Kerfoot came here from Chicago, where he had been a bank clerk, and married Mrs. Hunter's sister. Mrs. Kerfoot died about three months after her marriage and her husband went on a trip around the world. When he returned he was cordially welcomed into the Hunter home.

"Through all these years until 1914, when Mr. and Mrs. Hunter had some sort of a disagreement there was never a breath of suspicion against Kerfoot and Mrs. Hunter. It was not until some time during the summer of 1914 that Mr. Hunter began to think there was something back of his wife's coolness toward him.

"Why, Mr. Kerfoot," the lawyer exclaimed over the protest of the critic's lawyer, "at times practically ran the Hunter household, gave orders to the servants and bought supplies. He was Hunter's handy man. When Mrs. Hunter's throat was sore he sprayed it.

"Mrs. Hunter called her handy man, Mr. Kerfoot, on a private telephone she had installed in the house. He called upon her in her home in his pajamas and kissed her, as maids employed in the household will testify."

In the divorce proceedings in which Kerfoot was named as co-respondent Mrs. Hunter counter-charged her husband with being over friendly with Mrs. Greuner, a middle-aged widow for whom he purchased a handsome gift at Tiffany's. The decree of the court in favor of Mrs. Hunter was appealed to the Appellate Division and is now pending.

MRS. BAYLY FREED FROM HUSBAND, A NOTED HORSEMAN

Niece of Paul Morton and Husband Agreed on Suit, It Is Reported.

SHE HAD WILD CAREER.

Indulged in So Many Escapades She Had to Be Kept in Restraint.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—On a charge of desertion, Mrs. Helen Morton Bayly, daughter of Mark Morton of the International Salt Company of this city and a niece of the late Paul Morton, to-day won her divorce from Roger Clay Bayly, a noted horseman of the Warren set in Virginia. She and Bayly were married in 1914 and their life was a stormy one almost from their wedding day.

With the decree Mrs. Bayly obtained permission to use her maiden name. The circumstances of the divorce indicated that it had been obtained by mutual consent.

Bayly had charge of the horses on the estate of Miss Morton's mother in Warren when she married him. Throughout the hunting country thereabouts Bayly was known as a skilful rider to hounds and gentleman jockey.

Miss Morton had a bad fall from a horse some years ago and many of her madcap adventures are said to be traceable to the injuries she received. From being a studious girl in Miss Finch's school in New York she suddenly developed a craving for Broadway life and companions. Later she went to Warren and there met and married Bayly. A day or two after their wedding she chased him about the dining room of their house with a carving knife.

Three weeks after her marriage, upon her husband's application, she was adjudged mentally incompetent, but in March, 1916, she was declared sane again, although she and Bayly did not resume life together.

At the time she disappeared from home and was found on the estate of Col. George B. Fabyan, on Fox River. The courts gave her into Col. Fabyan's custody and guards were placed about the estate to make sure she did not escape.

Mrs. Bayly, who is a skilled horsewoman, has been doing sculptural work lately and with some success.

RUN DOWN IN BROADWAY.

Retired Importer Badly Hurt by Auto Opposite Trinity Church.

Crossing Broadway in front of Trinity Church to-day, George Tarter, sixty-seven years old, a retired importer living at No. 219 West One Hundred and Thirtieth Street, was knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by Walter Claypole of No. 25 Station Square, Forest Hills, N. J., an officer of the Atlantic Commercial Cable Company.

Mr. Tarter's right shoulder was fractured and he was also cut and bruised about the body. After being attended by a surgeon from Hudson Street Hospital he was taken home in Mr. Claypole's automobile. Mr. Tarter said that he had received no warning signal from the motorist.

PERKINS AND PENROSE NOW HAVE A REUNION

As Practical Men They Desire the Election of Hughes, So Get Together With Wilcox.

Another reunion of the Old Guard and the Bull Moose occurred to-day in Republican National Headquarters. Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania, "worst of reactionaries," and George W. Perkins, first financial lieutenant to Col. Roosevelt, not only met in cordial spirit, but joined in earnest conference to line up their respective followers. The two men had a long talk with Chairman Wilcox on campaign plans. They explained that it was not for spectacular effect but for essentially practical purposes.

"We are both interested in the common cause of electing Mr. Hughes," said Senator Penrose as he and Mr. Perkins stood side by side. Then some one quoted the famous line from the letters of T. R.: "You and I are practical men."

Chairman Wilcox regretted to announce after careful investigation there was no truth in the story of yesterday that the Colonel and Tarter had had a second meeting in the Union League Club elevator and tapped each other on the shoulder. There was no opportunity for the tapping because Mr. Tarter occupied the entire elevator when he went down.

As for Perkins and Penrose, they agreed to "tap" each other simultaneously, so there would be no first surrender on either side. Regular tap days are to be scheduled each week at Republican headquarters for new members in the political Skull and Bones Club.

CURED HIMSELF OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

A Missouri Man After Drinking for Thirty-Five Years Banished His Craving for Liquor With a Simple Home Recipe.

Mr. Thos. J. D. O'Bannon, a well known resident of Missouri, living at R. F. D. No. 3, Fredericktown, Mo., banished his craving for liquor with a simple recipe which he mixed at home.

Mr. O'Bannon recently made the following statement: "I am 41 years old and had drank for thirty-five years. My craving was so great I could not quit liquor. More than a year ago I had the following simple recipe filled and began taking it and it entirely banished my craving for liquor. To 3 oz. of water add 30 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound and 10 grains of poppin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. Any druggist can mix it for you or supply the ingredients at very little cost. This recipe can be taken of your own accord or given to anyone secretly in coffee, tea, milk or in food as it has no taste, color or smell and is perfectly harmless. I believe any drunkard can cure himself with this simple recipe."—Advt.
